

Pathways to Population Health Equity

➤ What

P2PHE is a health equity and population planning and implementation framework to support public health leaders to take strategic action over the short, medium and long term. For additional information and resources, see <https://www.publichealthequity.org/>.

➤ Who

The pathways framework was developed through a collaboration of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials (ASTHO), and Well-being and Equity (WE) in the World to advance population health and go beyond controlling disease or preventing physical health conditions.

➤ Activities

The Office of Health Disparities uses this framework to assist local health departments and their partners to identify where they are on the journey and develop strategic actions for improvement. Additional information is located on the Partners web page for the office.
