

We are pleased to introduce you to It's All About the Plan!, an e-learning course designed for people with disabilities and their families. We developed this course in collaboration with Southeast Community College, with funding provided by the Nebraska Planning Council on Developmental Disabilities.

Course modules are designed for four separate audiences to assist them in meaningfully participating in the process of planning for services. This includes educational services for students with disabilities and services for adults with intellectual or developmental disabilities. The modules are self-paced and may be taken either individually or shown in group settings such as classrooms, advocacy groups, or trainings.

The modules and links to them are as follows:

- The Parent and the Individual Education Program (IEP):

Each module includes two guidebooks, one for the participant and the other for a facilitator to use in a group setting. Links to the participant guides are provided within the module. If you wish to obtain a copy of the facilitator handbook, please contact us.

We hope you find this information useful and that you will help spread the word about this important resource. If you have questions or comments regarding the course or the materials, please let us know. Our contact information is provided below. We'd like to hear from you!
