Services: Behavioral pediatric problems such as compliance, temper tantrums, enuresis, sleep problems, school grade and behavioral difficulties, ADHD, autism, and oppositional disorders are commonly seen in Pediatric and Family Medicine practices. The MMI Psychology Department assists local and rural pediatricians in meeting the needs of youth with such difficulties. Through an "integrated care" model that addresses mental health problems in coordination with physical care, behavioral services are provided within primary care practices. The MMI program has been replicated across Nebraska and is available in 14 rural primary care practice settings, listed below.
