

When is it appropriate for a participant to be involved in Education Directly Related to Employment?

Education Directly Related to Employment is for those individuals who do not have a high school diploma or GED. If the participant has graduated from high school or has their GED certificate, they should be placed in Vocational Training or Job Skills Training Directly Related to Employment.