What is the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline?

• The National Suicide Prevention Lifeline is a national network of local crisis call centers that provide free and confidential emotional support to people in suicidal crisis or emotional distress 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

• The trained crisis worker listens and works to understand how a caller’s problem is affecting their life, provide support, and connect them to resources.
National Lifeline Call Data

• 18 million calls answered since 2005 (includes Veterans Crisis Line).

• 9 million of those calls were answered in the past 4 years.

• Over 2.4 million calls answered in 2020 alone.

• Interpretation services are provided for individuals with limited English proficiency.
National Lifeline Centers

• 180 centers are in the Lifeline network. 200 more are expected by summer.

• Centers are independently operated and independently funded though all receive a Lifeline participation stipend.

• 9 centers provide national backup services when local centers can’t address the call volume.
