Household and Unit Size

- Household Size for a Tax Filer:
 - The first step in determining MAGI-based eligibility is to determine the household size for each individual. The method for counting individuals depends on whether the person is a tax filer, a non-tax filer, or a tax dependent.
 - A Tax Filer is the individual who files a tax return and is not expected to be claimed as a tax dependent.
 - When determining household size for MAGI-based eligibility, it is important to know who intends to file a tax return. This information is asked of each individual in the application.
 - Household size for a Tax Filer: The individual expected to file a tax return PLUS all persons whom the individual expects to claim as tax dependents.

NEBRASKA

Good Life. Great Mission.

DEPT. OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

Helping People Live Better Lives.

Household and Unit Size

- Tax Dependents

- A Tax Dependent is an individual for whom another individual claims a deduction for a personal exemption for a taxable year.
- For eligibility determination, a tax dependent is part of the household of the tax filer claiming the individual as a tax dependent, except when:
 - The individual expects to be claimed as a tax dependent of someone other than a spouse or parent (biological, adopted, or step).
 - The individual is under the age 19 and expects to be claimed by one parent as a tax dependent and is living with both parents, but the parents are not expected to file a joint return.
 - The individual is under age 19 and expects to be claimed as a tax dependent by a non-custodial parent.
 - To be considered a non-custodial parent, a court order, binding separation, divorce or custody agreement establishing custody must exist.
 - In no such order exists, or in the event of a shared custody agreement the custodial parent is the parent with whom the child spends most nights.

Household and Unit Size

- Tax Dependents (cont.)
 - If the tax payer cannot reasonably establish that another individual is a tax dependent of the taxpayer for the tax year in which Medicaid is sought, non-filer rules are applied.
 - For married couples living together, each spouse will be included in the household of the other spouse, regardless of whether they expect to file a joint tax return or whether one spouse expects to be claimed as a tax dependent by the other spouse.

Household and Unit Size

- Household Size of a Non-Tax-Filer:
 - A Non-filer is an individual who does not file an income tax return or is not claimed as a tax dependent.
 - A Non-Tax Filer's household would include the individual, and if living with the individual:
 - The individual's spouse,
 - The individual's children (natural, adopted, and step)
 - If the applicant is under age 19, the individual's parents and siblings under age 19 (natural, adopted, and step).

Household and Unit Size

- Family Size Using MAGI Methodology:
 - Family size is the number of persons counted as members of an individual's household.
 - Household size must be determined for each Medicaid applicant according to specific counting rules (described below), and is not simply the number of people living together.
 - When determining the family size, a pregnant woman is counted as herself plus the number of children she is expected to deliver.

DEPT. OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

Household and Unit Size

- Example:
 - Tara is a 35-year-old working mother who has two children, Monica (age 5) and Reynaldo (age 3). Tara is a tax filer and claims Monica as a dependent child. Reynaldo's father, who does not live in the home, claims Reynaldo. Tara is pregnant and is expecting twins.
 - Tara's household consists of herself, Monica, and the twins. Tara's household size is 4.
 - Monica's household is the same as Tara's household. Tara's household size is 4.
 - Reynaldo's household consists of himself, Monica, Tara, and the twins. Reynaldo's household size is 5.

Modified Adjusted Gross Income (MAGI)

- MAGI income is the sum of MAGI-based income for each member of the individual's household with the following exceptions:
 - Income of an individual included in the household of his or her parent and not required to file a tax return is not included in household income (whether or not the individual files a tax return).
 - Income of a tax dependent, other than a spouse or child, who expects to be claimed as a tax dependent by another taxpayer included in the household and is not expected to file a tax return, is not included.
 - Cash support provided by a tax filer, to a claimed tax dependent other than a spouse or biological, adopted, or step child, is not included. For example, an aunt is a tax filer and her nephew is her dependent. She gives him $100 a month for an allowance. This is excluded income for the nephew.

DEPT. OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

Helping People Live Better Lives.

Modified Adjusted Gross Income (MAGI)

- Some individuals choose to file an income tax return even if they are not required to do so.
 - For example, some high school students hold part-time jobs. They may not earn enough to meet the IRS's filing requirement, but they can still choose to file if they would like to receive a return of any withheld income tax they overpaid. When counting income for a MAGI-based budget, the student's income will be excluded unless their earnings require them to file a tax return.

 - Scholarships, awards, or fellowship grants used for education, but not living expenses;
 - Child support;
 - Veterans benefits (this does not include military retirement);
 - Worker's Compensation;
 - Supplemental Security Income (SSI)
