AMERICAN REGISTRY OF RADIOLOGIC TECHNOLOGISTS (ARRT) ANNOUNCEMENT

The board discussed the American Registry of Radiologic Technologists (ARRT) documents that were provided by ARRT. The board acknowledged receipt of the announcement.

CT CONTRAST/SALINE INJECTION PRACTICE QUESTION

A Radiologist is asking CT to do a specific Heart protocol. It involves contrast and saline simultaneously injecting at the same time. We have Bracco injectors which don't allow this like our old Medrad injectors. He's suggesting we draw up the mix of contrast and saline in the same syringe? But we don't know if this was in our scope. I've reached out to our pharmacy to see if they have ever mixed a bag for this request and they said no, they wouldn't do that. Can our Radiologic Technologists do this?

*Cristina "Nina" Granger, R.T. (R)(M)(CT)(ARRT)
Imaging Supervisor
CHI Health Creighton University Medical Center-Bergan Mercy*

The board discussed the practice question and suggested that the diluting of the contrast and saline in the same syringe is not an issue. A Medical Radiographer is qualified to administer both.
